Mini Track: Intellectual Capital and Organizational Learning

Track Chair: Dr. Bob Barrett, American Public University, USA

Intellectual capital is comprised of all resources that help to determine the competitiveness and value of an organization in one's economy. While many global economies have fluctuated during the past several years, certain companies and industries have learned better ways of managing their resources. As industries have adapted to changes in their economy, some industries have survived, and even flourished during these critical, economic times. During this time many organizations have found value in the process of learning among its employees, groups, and organization as a whole. Organizational learning is an area that has gained much attention over the past decade in terms of how it can help individuals, groups, and organizations learn from their experiences, as well as to how to prepare for current and future economic, cultural, or political changes in the workplace. Thus, it may be important to examine how other organizations use their intellectual capital in the development of its organizational learning efforts, as well as exploring how organizations can best utilize their resources to help into a learning organization

Topics may include, but are not limited to:

- Developing intellectual capital to compete in the online learning environment
- Managing intellectual capital and stakeholders in the virtual setting
- Understanding current uses of intellectual capital in online learning and development of best practices
- Determining the role and function of intellectual capital in online learning in the context of a changing economy and demand of the marketplace
- Identifying and examining factors that affect intellectual capital in an organization and determining future plans of action and strategies
- Other related topics

Submission details:

Abstract details: The Abstract should be a minimum of 300 and no more than 500 words including up to five keywords and keyphrases to be received by 30 March 2012. Please read the abstract guidelines section of the website before submitting.

This call for papers and full details about the conference can be found online at:

<http://academic-conferences.org/icickm/icickm2012/icickm12-call-papers.htm>

Submission: Online at <http://academic-conferences.org/icickm/icickm2012/icickm12-abstract-submission.htm> ensure that you complete all relevant sections of the form, including the conference track the abstract is intended for, the proposed title for the paper, the full names (first name and surname, not initials) and email addresses of all authors and a postal address and telephone number for at least one contact author. Please indicate clearly if the contact author is not the lead author.

Full paper: Only required when the abstract has been selected and not to be more than 5,000 words including abstract, keywords and references (the Harvard referencing rules need to be followed). Submission date will be no later than 18 May 2012. Papers should be submitted as .doc or .rtf file attachments by email to the Conference Manager, Julia Hawkins at Julia.hawkins@academic-conferences.org

The selection panel of the conference committee will consider all abstracts received by the submission deadline to ensure that the proposed paper is relevant to the Conference. The authors of abstracts that describe a relevant paper will receive a notification of abstract selection. All full papers will be double-blind reviewed by members of the conference committee to ensure an adequate standard, that the proposed subject of their abstract has been followed, that the paper is of a suitable length, the standard of English is adequate and the paper is appropriately referenced. For authors whose first language is not English we request that you have your work proofread preferably by a native English speaker prior to submission (or at least a fluent English speaker) – papers may be rejected due to a poor standard of English. Papers that are accepted will be published in the conference proceedings providing at least one author registers and presents the work at the Conference (see the registration section of the conference website for more information about registration).

Due to the large number of papers expected for this conference, the committee prefers that an author presents only one paper. However, if multiple papers are accepted for publication and presentation, each paper requires a separate registration fee. Author registration (including payment) must be completed by 14 September 2012. Please direct enquiries at Julia.hawkins@academic-conferences.org
