CALL FOR PAPERS, Case Studies, Work in Progress/Posters, PhD Research, Round Table Proposals, non-academic Contributions and Product Demonstrations

Mini Track: Mobile learning – pedagogy and place

Mini Track Co-Chairs: Dr Noeline Wright, Waikato University, New Zealand; Dick Ng'ambi University of Cape Town, South Africa

Despite the affordances of mobile learning in education, there is fragmented evidence that illustrate ways of blending formal and informal curriculum through the use of mobile devices. The general rationale for using mobile learning is that the learner is mobile, devices are ubiquitous, learning is space and time independent, and therefore mobile devices have the potential to facilitate learning across time and space, complementing core with non-core curriculum. This mini track seeks two types of papers; i) papers that demonstrate innovative uses of mobile devices (for example, cellphone, MP3 players, digital recorders) in learning contexts, preferably in schools and higher education. ii) papers that demonstrate ways in which mobile devices harness Web 2.0 tools as part of the learning. It is envisaged that papers submitted for this track will demonstrate uses of mobile technologies in innovative or unusual learning contexts. Three areas should be clearly be addressed in the abstract: context, method, findings/impact (addressing issues, curriculum pedagogy, affordance, and learning outcomes).

Topics of interest for this mini track include but are not limited too:

- formal learning
- curriculum & pedagogy
- theory & pedagogy
- Web 2.0 & learning
- informal learning
- outcomes/impact on learning/achievement
- innovative contexts & learning
- Other Topics

As well as full academic papers, the following submissions are also welcomed:

Research in Progress: Researchers may submit current projects whilst they are still in progress

Case Study Submissions: Submissions should be written to publishable standards.

For product demonstrations, please submit a proposal of 200-300 words describing the product you would like to demonstrate and the audience it serves. Proposals should be sent as an email attachment to Sue Nugus not later than 24 January 2011. Demonstrations themselves are expected to be approximately 15 minutes in length. At least one person must register for the conference to give the presentation

A prize will be awarded for the best Poster and best PhD Paper presented at the Conference.

Important information:

- The selection panel of the conference committee will consider all paper abstracts received by the submission deadline to ensure that the proposed paper is relevant to the Conference.
- The authors of abstracts that describe a relevant paper will receive a notification of abstract selection.
- All submissions for demonstrations will be reviewed by the conference organisers to ensure that the proposed demonstration is likely to be of interest to the conference participants.
- All full papers will be double-blind reviewed by members of the conference committee to ensure an adequate standard, that the proposed subject of their abstract has been followed, that the paper is of a suitable length, the standard of English is adequate and the paper is appropriately referenced.
- For authors whose first language is not English we request that you have your work proof read prior to submission by a native English speaker (or at least a fluent English speaker). Papers can be rejected due to a poor standard of English.
- Papers that are accepted will be published in the conference proceedings providing at least one author registers and presents the work at the Conference (see the registration section of the conference website for more information about registration).
- Due to the large number of papers expected for this conference, the committee only allows an author to present one paper. Therefore if multiple papers are accepted for presentation different co-authors need to present each paper.
